THURSDAY, DEC. 13, 1923.

Our President

President Coolidge in his first message to Congress on the 6th instant sounds the key-note of his campaign for the office of president. In his foreign affairs policy he pleases Hiram Johnson and the majority of his party, but the difference in a world court to settle international questions and a League of Nations will need some explanations. He wants the farmers to have cheap fertilizers and is willing to sell Muscle Shoals, and this ought to make Ford a good fellow. He opposes the bonus to World War Veterans and a reduction of the tax on incomes, this will appeal to the big money interests, but will doubtless cost him many soldier voters. He favors consolidation of railroads and some adjustments of rates on farm products, but objects to fixing prices on staple crops of the farm—the farmer is left to adopt his own measures of relief without the aid of Congress and the President, while the railroads must be kept on a paying basis by laws fixing profitable rates. The right to issue tax except securities should be prohibited, in this we heartily concur.

The message is free of uncertainties and straddles in the main, and while it does not rank with his predecessors as a great state paper, the people will commend him for his frankness, whether his recommendations be practicable or not. Its brevity is no doubt wise, because many will read who never read before a President's message with sentences requiring the wind of a porpus to read.

Record Receipts At Co-Op Houses

More tobacco of the 1923 crop reached the warehouses of the Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association last week than at any [illegible] since the beginning of increasing delivories by the organized tobacco farmers brought the marketing associ ation exactly 8,948,973 pounds of tobacco last week, according to the reports of the warehouse department.

Old belt co-ops who will receive a third advance on their 1922 deliveries on January 10th, last week delivered close to six and a half million pounds of bright tobacco to the cooperative houses, this with a million and a quarter pounds of dark fired and sun-cured tobacco delivered in Virginia brought the total of the Virginia and Western Carolina growers for last week to over 7,500,000 pounds.

All bright and dark markets of the association in North Carolina and Virginia will close on December 20th—the bright market will reopen on January 8th and the dark market on January 2nd.

Secretary, Henry A. Wallace, of the Department of Agriculture at Washington, emphasized the importance of cooperative marketing in his annual report to the President. Secretary Wallace stated: "If farmers could control their production as does organized labor, unusual action by government might not be demanded so urgently. It is just as well to keep in mind that both industry and labor are inefficient of government action, and that such action during the war and two years following has added not a little to the farmer's difficulties."

Motion For New Trial In Xippas Case Overruled

In Norfolk, December 12th a motion for a new trial in the case of Socrates A. Xippis, convicted in corporation court last month for violating Virginia election laws in the recent democratic primary, was overruled by Judge O. L. Shackelford today.

On motion of counsel for the defense, Xippas was granted a suspension of his sentence of six months in jail and $500 fine until March 10th, in order that he may appeal the case to the Virginia Supreme court. Judge Shackelford fixed his bond at $3,000 a thousand more than that under which he was released pending the decision on the motion for a new trial. He ordered Xippas held until new bond of $3,000 could be given.—News.

OUR SCHOOL.

The Appomattox High school is progressing nicely this session While one additional teacher has been added the crowded condition is still observed. There are 137 pupils in High School and 350 in the grades and its graduating class this year is larger than it has been for several years. There are 20 candidates for graduation The Literary Societies are doing good work in the new auditorium. Weekly programs are rendered and the part well-performed. A tri-county debate after Xmas has just been arranged with Farmville High School and Charlotte High School. It is planned to have a team here and at each of these places the same night on the same subject. Much interest is being taken in selecting the debaters from our school.

To create a better spirit of welfare about the school a parent Teacher's Association is now organized and meets monthly—Mrs. C. F. James, President, and Miss Nellie Robertson, Secretary.

Prof. Crawley was sent as a delegate to the State Convention and the report he gave of its work and influence was very highly commended. He reports that the Association was largely responsible for the following:

1 Better feeling between pupil, parrons and teacher.

2 Better understanding as to bad effect of an over-crowded school room.

3 Purchase of a $500 drop curtain for the new auditorium.

4 Installation of a water system and sanitary toilets.

5 Introduction of better movies for our town and free educational movies weekly for our young students.

6 Other minor interior and exterior improvements.

This association is less than one year operative, and a plan is now on foot to enlist the membership and co-operation of every patron. At present there are only 88 members paid up. Patrons join in and let's keep our school at the top. It is already the largest rural school in Virginia—let's make it the best.
